

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A steerable suspension system having a composite axle beam. In a 5 described embodiment, a suspension system includes an axle assembly which has an axle beam made of composite material. King pin receivers may be formed in devices attached at opposite ends of the axle beam. The devices may be made of metal or composite material. The king pin receivers may alternatively be integrally formed with the axle beam.